

Naval Training Center – Building 5

San Diego

Naval Training Center – Building 5

San Diego

- One of the first buildings constructed at the Naval Training Center San Diego, Building 5 was built as bachelor enlisted men's quarters.
- The building's design reflects the typical architectural characteristics of the Mission Revival style common in the American Southwest.
- The Naval Training Center was listed as a National Register District in 2001.

Naval Training Center – Building 5

San Diego

Project Scope:

- Remove recently installed interior partitions and suspended ceilings; perform asbestos and lead paint abatement; clean walls, floors and ceilings; patch and paint.
- Repair tile and metal roofing.
- Repair or replace windows and doors as needed.
- Install new electrical, plumbing, and heating/ventilation systems.
- Install elevator for second floor access.
- Construct new single use accessible bathroom, concrete disabled access ramp, and make other accessibility upgrades including new hardware, railings and doors.
- Complete seismic evaluation and recommendations for upgrade of building.

Grant Amount: $300,000